

ALEXANDRIA. VA WEDNESDAY EVENING, MARCH 4.

THE FIFTY-FIRST Congress expired at noon to-day by constitutional limitation, its tival adjournment being decidedly the most constitutional act of its entire term. Unquestionably it was more disgraceful than any of its predecessors, and did a great deal toward disgusting right thinking men with sc-palled free institutions. One branch of it transacted much of its business without any rules, and then made rules depriving the minority of any rights whatever. The same branch also turned out fairly elected white members in order to give their seats to negroes who were not elected, either fairly or unfairly; whitewashed guilty officials and applauded members who fought field fights and uttered flithy and obscene language on its floor. The whole Congress wasted nearly half its time in a vain effort to ruin the South by inducing the negroes to attempt domination in this section; it imposed additional taxes upon the necessaries of life, to the profit of northern manufacturers who subscibe money with which to buy the election of reputlican candidates; it increased peneion appropriations to the amount of nearly two hundred million dollars a year; it passed subsidy bills for the banadi: of a few northern ship-owners; it passed a bill that enabled silver speculators to make a clear profit of ten million dollars in one deal, and it created new partisan courts; but what good it did has not yet. been discovered, nor can be by the most powerful magnifying glass. The only thing for which it can be properly thanked, is for adj urning, and it only did that because it was compelted to do so.

IT IS as impossible for Mr. Ingalis to change his nature as it is for the Ethiopian to change his skin. Now that Congress has adjourned, and there will be no more work for the clerk of his old committee, that on the District of Columbia, to do until next December, he has removed the republican clerk, who has done all the work of that committee during the 51st Congress, and eppointed his own son, who will have nothing to do except draw the salary of the office for nine months, or until the next Congress

BOTH WINGS of the Home Rule party in Ireland have determined to send envoys to this country to collect morey, not to relieve the sufferings of the poor people of Ireland, but avowedly for partisan and factions! purposes. Well, this is a free country, and the Parnellites and the ant'-Parnellites have as much right as anybody else to come here and ask for money, but the people of this country have as undisputed right to give or not give just as they choose.

THE POOR negroes who were deceived in to leaving the South and going to Okla homa, where they were led to believe they could have farme for the asking, are now starving to death, and vainly begging for enough money to pay their way back to their old southern homes. And yet their professed friends in the North say they are badly treated in the South.

IN THE U. S. Senate yesterday Mr. Plumb, as Mr. Siewart and other republican Senators had done before, exposed and denounced the injustice, favoriteism, hypocricy and utter humbuggery of the civil service law. Bu', nevertheless, they all continue to vote large appropriations for the mainte nance and support of the civil service com-

MR. THOMAS BRACKETT REED at noon today was deposed from his position as the entogratic and tyrannous ruler of the U S. House of Representatives, and during the next Congress he will occupy the position of an uprespected member of the small minoriry in that body. He is unwept, unhonored and unsung.

ME. REED, ex-Speaker of the U.S. House of Representatives, when he first took the House in charge, said the late, would be a business Congress. Well, it has been, but certainly a losing business one, for the deficit in next year's revenue will certainly be fifty, out, more likely, be two bundred million.

FROM WASHINGTON.

[Special Correspondence of the Alexandria Gazette.] WASHINGTON, D. C., March 4, 1890. The provision to repay Virginia for the money she advanced the general government in the war of 1812 was struck out of the appropriation bill and is defeated.

The provision for paying the French spcliation claims was retained in the deficiency bill and is now a law.

The bill to give the Norfolk and Western Railroad entrance into this city, as anticipated in this correspondence, was never taken down from the nail on which it was hung up in the Senate by Mr. Edmunds, so the N. & W, if it needs a Washington connection immediately, must have it by the Virginia Midland R. R.

Both houses of Congress had all-night seselone, but the proceedings in both were rather tame. The Senate adjurned with its usual decorum, but on the adjournment of the House, the republican members sang Through Georgia" and Brown's Body Lies Moulding in the Grave," and the democrats responded by thundering forth the Doxology, which was taken up by the newspaper correspondents in the reporters' gallery, and the whole space above the floor was filled with floating paper thrown into the air by the members on both sides. Among the sufferers by Mr. Speaker Reed's refusal to recegnize any but his own friends, is Mr. Ward, of Alexandria, whose bill for royalty on his bullet making patent rassed the Senate and got as far as the in Furlington, Vt., yes'erday, and under it the Speaker's table in the House. It is estimated that Congress appropriated during the present session $525,000,000, and that the treasury deficit will be large. This extraordinary raid upon the treasury is per haps partly due to the realization of republicans that this is the last time, for years to come, when they will have control of both branches of Congress and the executive, hence the desire to make the most of their present opportunity.

THE SUBSIDY BILL.-The postal subsidy bill, signed by the President yesterday, will, as stated on the floor of the Senate, inure solely to the benefit of two steamship corpo rations, who will draw no one knows how many bundreds of thousands annually with out the expenditure of a single additional cent. One of these corporations, the Pacific Mail, has always been a favorite plaything of the gamblers and sharks of Wali street, who have had their emissaries on hand all the winter and who have shorn the lambs royally, as the stock went up or down exactly as it suited them, for they were perfectly satisfied from the beginning with their "puli" on this "business" Congress and never had eny fear as to the ultimate success of the steal so adroitly conceived and engineered .- Balto.

Both houses held two sessions yesterday. In the Senate after the GAZETTE's report closed the bill to incorporate the National Conservatory of Music of America was passed. The Senate then proceeded to the consideration of House pension bills on the calendar, and passed a large number of such The Senate insisted on the Hawaiian cable amendment to the diplomatic and consular appropriation bill and agreed to a further conference. The House bill for the transfer of the revenue cutter service from the Tressury Department to the naval establishment was discussed but no sclion taken. The conference reports on the Indian appropriation, the postoffice appropriation and the copyright bills were adopted. In explaining the latter Mr. Platt said it left every one at liberty to import two copies of every one at liberty to import two copies of a foreign book by paying the duty on them, and it left newspapers and magazines to be imported, provided they did not contain copyright matter.

The Speaker laid before the House the Senate joint resolution amending the act establishing circait courts of appeals by providing that such courts shall hold their fi st session on the third Tuesday in June, 1891. Mr. Caswell offered an amendment providing that nothing in the original act shall be construed in any way to impair the jurisdiction of the Su-preme Court or any circuit court of the United States in any case now pending before it, in re-spect to any cause wherein a writ of error or ap-peal shall have been issued out or taken to said court before July 1, 1891.

Mr. Mc Millin took occasion to call attention to the fact that nearly every important measure passed under the present rules 'to expedite busi-ness' had to be amended by a subsequent joint res olution. This House had opened in confusion, had continued in confusion, and it looked as if it would end in confusion. There was but one consolution, and that was that to morrow the country could say: "The Lord giveth and the Lord take the away, blessed be the name of the Lord." Laughter and applause]

HANDSOME FHADE TREES .- Orange trees in full bearing are as numerous as ordinary shade trees in the streets of some inland Florida cities and towns. It is a common sight just now to see the sidewalks lined with trees well loaded with the sidewalks lined with trees well loaded with the golden fruit, which nobody takes the trouble to pluck. The oranges seem to be as large and fine as any which command $2 per box in the orchards. The real reason why the fruit is neglected is that most of it is sour and often bitter. Oranges which grow wild and which are not carefully cared for by a cultivator are peor fruit, and Florida means down think it worth while to take ids people don't think it worth while to take them off the trees. But no sight could be more attractive to northern eyes than that of the public walks shaded by the deep green foliage of the orange trees, in which the ripe fruit glistens like apples of gold.—New York Sun.

'Yankee Doodle Dixie" is the somewhat original title of a novel by J. V. Ryais, of Virginia, received from the publishers, Everett Waddey & Co., Richmond. The story contains sensational incidents and some poiitics and spiritualism. The scene is laid in Virginia at a period just prior to and after secession, and is full of local hits, names, & . interesting to Virginia readers because of their familiarity. Barring the vendetta business, which is rather forced, the book in most respects is well written and is readsble, and is issued in attractive form.

ASSOCIATED PRESS DISPATCHES.

Proceedings of Congress. WASHINGTON, D. C., March 4 SENATE.

The Senate, after an all night session re cessed until 9 s. m., when it resumed and defeated a motion to reconsider the vote by which the copyright bill had been passed. Mr. Stewart complained bitterly of the action of the conferees in rejecting the passed. amendment to reimburse the States of Californis, Oregon and Nevada for expenses incurred in suppressing the rebellion.

Mr. Morgan applied to be excused from further service on the committee on foreign

Mr. Hoar objected and said that it would be with great regret that the Senate and the country would soe the distinguished Senator from Alabama withdraw from that mportant committee.

The like sert ment was expressed by Messes Rensom, Cullom, Dawes, Spooner, and Gorman, and on motion of the latter Senator the Senate declined to acceed to Mr. Morgan's request.

Mr. Ransom offered a resolution which was unen!mously agreed to, tendering the thanks of Congress to the Vice President for the courteous, dignified, and able manner in which he had presided over the deliberations of the Senate.

The definiency bill, enrolled and signed by the Speaker, was received from the House and it was immediately signed by the Vice President, and carried to the Presdent, who, (in company with members of the Cabinet) was occupying his room adining the Senate chamber.

The committee appointed to wait on the President reported that he had no further communication to make to the Senate.

The hands on the dial of the Sanate clock poloted to five minutes before noon and it appeared as if for the first time in the mem ory of this generation, the amusing little scene of old Captain Bassett's march to the ocality of the clock with a long white wand in hand in order to put back the minute hand to suit the emergency of the occasion, was to be omitted. Those who imagined so, however, were amusingly disappointed. for the venerable gentleman, wand in hand, and with his characteristic gait strode solennly up the central aislesmid the hardly suppressed laughter of a thousand speciatirs-and turned back by about three minutes the hands upon the dial. Once again, and a third time still, he time-killing operation was performed; and finally, when the thing was overdone, he stalked back for the fourth time and advanced the hands a few minutes.

Mesnwhile the clerk of the House had brought over a j int resolution just passed, to correct an error in the enrollment of the sgricultural appropriation bill.

The joint resolution was passed, the last piece of Senate legislation, of the 51st Congrass, but it was of no force or effect, for, before it could be sent back to the House, that body (not having had, recourse to the Bassett method of pos'poning the hour of noon) had adjourned.

When no other scrap of business remained to be transacted, and when the clock had taken a three minute step forward at a touch of the old wizard's wand, the Vice-President arose and made his farewell without day.

floor and the galleries at the conclusion of precisely 13 minutes past 12.

HOUSE.

The scenes in the House at the night session-the last one of its existence-were hardly up to the standard of the scenes which have made the 51-t Congress memorable. Conference report after conference report was presented but they created only a elight ripple on the smooth surface of the proceedings.

Members stood around seeking the Speaker's eye for consideration of some pet measure; but few of them were gratified in their wishes. While the general tenor of conduct was good instured, the weariness of the representatives rendered some of sulted in the explosion of public opinion them irritable, and many remarks were exchanged which could not parliamentarily be incorporated in the record.

A motion that the House recede from ite disagreement to the French spoliation claims amendment was agreed to.

On motion of Mr. Cannon the House insisted on its disagreement to all the remaining points in dispute, notwithstanding Mr. O'Ferrall's protest that Mr. Canson had broken faith with him in not permitting a eparate vote on the Virginia claims.

Mr. McKinley, of Onlo, offered the following resolution : Toat the thanks of this House are presented to the Hon. Thomas B. Reed for the it from France, and that the ditch can be able, impartial and dignified manner in which he has presided over its deliberations, and performed the arducus and important duties of the chair.

Mr. Mills demanded the yeas and nays. The resolution was agreed to-yeas, 152; nays, 116 -a strict party vote. The republicans immediately burst into a volley of cheers, which were only redoubled when Mr. Mills inquired whether this was part of the funeral services.

The Speaker then resumed the chair. His appearance was the signal for a wild outburst from the republican side. Papers and the Michigan Senate. records were thrown in the air, handkerchiefs were waved and for a few moments the chamber rang with cheers. But through- Hotel in New York, this morning, of liver out the tumult, the Speaker was calm, and trouble. with a few vigorous strokes of his gavel restored order.

Then Mr. Breckipridge, of Kentucky, paid a warm tribute of respect to the chairman of the committee on appropaiations, Mr. Cennon. Mr. Springer congratula had the country wounded William Ford, of Booneville, Mise ury and squander the people's money. The Speaker stated that in the enrolling of the agricultural bill the appropriation of this morning. $150,000 for the relief of destitute persons in the West had been inadvertently retained. the mistake.

Mr. Pickler, of South Dakots, objected. Whereupon Mr. Funston, of Kansas, vigorously exclaimed : "Shame on you! Shame | tween Mitchell and La Barche had been on you! You villain! You villain!"

But Mr. Pickler subsequently withdrew his objection, and the joint resolution was

The committee appointed to wait on the President having returned and stated that the President had no more communications to make to the House, Speaker Reed rose and said : "After two long and stormy sessions, in some respects unparalleled in a hundred years, the House of Representatives of the 51st Congress will soon pass with completed record into the history of the country; and its works willfollow. What we have done is in a large measure political. Whatever is political rouses the sternest, the most turbulent, the most unforgiving passions of the human race. Political action can never be justly viewed from a near stand point. Time and distance are needed for a ripe judgment; and the verdiet of history is the only verdict worth recording. To state in language which would seem to me to be adequate, the achievements of the House, would not be suitable to this time or to this place. Nor is it in the least needful that I should here and now rekindled old disputes or fan the dying embers of struggles passed and gone. Whether we have disposed of questions of floance with the wisdom of broad statesmanship time will surely show. Whether in the things we have done and the things we have attempted for the furtherance of human liberty, we were actuated by high and honorable motives will be visible to all the world at no distant day. Our actions need no catalogue, and all enumeration and praise by ourselves would be in vain. If our deeds do not praise us, our words cannot. Confident as I am of the verdict of time on what we have done, I am still more confideut that the highest commendation will be given us in the future, not for what measures we have passed, valuable as they are, but because we have taken so long a stride in the direction of responsible government. Having demonstrated to the people that those who have been elected to do their will can do it, henceforth excuses will not be taken for performance, and government by the people will be stronger in the land. Toward those who have opposed what the majority of the House have desired we can have no unkindly or personal feeling. Whoever offers battle to old convictions and faiths must expect battle, and the vigor of the resistance must always bear some proportion to the vigor of the onset. To members on my left with whom I am politically associated I beg to tender my most sincere and heartfelt acknowledgments. No man ever received more ungrudging and unflinch ing support, or from a band of men more patriotic. I am proud to acknowledge in all that has been done I have been but one in the multitude, and that the honors of the Fifty-first Congress belong to you alone. I
